AID FOR ITALY BY RED CROSS

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 26.—Appeals for subscriptions to funds for the purchase of Christmas presents for the soldiers in the trenches are appearing in the German press. The Germans have learned by experience to make an early start in organizing this all-important feature of the soldiers' life. Many of the larger newspapers are conducting special funds for Christmas and almost every town is making subscriptions for its soldiers. Appeals for funds have been issued by various army corps.

The presents which do so much to maintain the spirits of the soldiers in their dreary life at the front usually consist of small Christmas boxes for the individual soldiers, containing small articles of comfort, necessity or amusement.
The value of this stimulant to the morale of the troops is so recognized by the military authorities that shipments of gifts rank with munitions as regards urgency of transportation just before Christmas.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE BUTLER.

Today the costliest program ever offered. Official British war pictures, presented by Wm. K. Vanderbilt for war relief fund—"The Tanks." The one and only one of its kind. You have read about them, talked about them, and now is your chance to see them in action. Every action is guaranteed to be authentic—taken during the Battle of the Ancre, at which time several camera men were killed while trying to get these pictures. In Omaha, as well as several other large cities, the mayor declared a holiday in honor of "The Tanks." See German prisoners, hundreds of them, including a German colonel and his staff. Tanks, large and small, lumber into action, British soldiers "go over the top," bomb throwers at work, shells exploding in first line trenches. Alice Joyce and Marc Maeder, in "An Alabaster Box." The limit of human unforgetfulness is reached in "An Alabaster Box," the Blue Ribbon feature for today. Love and charity prevail in this gripping production, where the once honored citizen returns a broken down ex-convict and dies seeking to protect his daughter in the old family mansion from a mob of vengeful townspeople. Evening 7 and 8:45.

TELL DETAILS OF FIERCE FIGHTING

ITALIAN BATTERY BURIED IN EARTH BY SHELL AND GUNNERS USE BAYONETS.

(By Associated Press.) ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Nov. 26.—Strong enemy attacks with artillery preparation continued throughout the day along the whole extent of front between the Brenna and Piave rivers, but the enemy made no ground and all his attacks failed.

The fighting, while severe, was not of that whirlwind character of the last two days and both sides are engaged in reorganizing their positions on the shifting front and taking a momentary respite from the tremendous strain of the last few days.

Another enemy attempt to cross the Piave on pontoons resulted in the wiping out of the pontoons and the men.

Further details of the fierceness of the recent fighting in the north were given to the correspondent by an eye witness returning from the battle front, who also told of many daring deeds by the battery men and infantry.

Two batteries were brought into action Saturday morning. The enemy fire was so fierce that a whole battery was nearly swept away. As the captain was killed his place was taken by a lieutenant. When the last gun was destroyed in a storm of shells the few gunners about him seized their bayonets and joined the infantry as they swept forward in a charge and were among those who drove back the enemy in one of the fiercest attacks.

In another case an explosion almost buried one of the mountain batteries in debris and killed the captain. The Austrians tried to occupy the position over this buried battery. But the battery men first drove the enemy back, then dug out their guns and twenty men and carried them back so that the guns again are in service today.
